RUSSIA SECONDS GERMANY, SEEKS PERSONAL GAINS

Impossible To Defeat An "Idea" By Sword, Soviet Theory

Moscow, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Soviet Russia backed Germany tonight in her drive for peace in Europe and at the same time sought to consolidate her military, territorial and economic gains in a diplomatic chain stretching from the Baltic to the Black Sea.

Finnish Patriots

Helsinki, Finland, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Crime-frenzied citizens of this northern republic thronged Helsinki's railway station tonight to say farewell to the Finnish delegation, Moscow-bound for "economic and political negotiations."

When Dr. J. K. Paasikivi, who heads the delegation, appeared on the platform, the crowd with bared heads began to sing. Women with trembling lips clung to the arms of husbands, brothers, fathers and sons as the words of the Finnish patriotic hymn resounded under the high roof of the station.

"Never shall our land bow before the foreign tyrant," they sang.

In the first comment to appear in Russia on Adolf Hitler's Reichstag speech of Friday, the government newspaper Izvestia made a demand for peace on the basis of Hitler's terms, which the paper called "real" and "practical," and attacked Britain and France.

Izvestia accused the allies of "returning to the middle ages" in waging war to "exterminate Hitlerism." "It is impossible," the newspaper declared, "to exterminate any idea or any opinion by fire and sword. One may respect or hate Hitlerism or any other system of political opinions. This is a matter of taste. But to begin a war for the extermination of Hitlerism means to admit to criminal silliness in policy."

The "disintegration" of Poland was called "irrefutable proof that its lack of vital power" removed the cause for further war.

The status of Russia's four-linked negotiations or "prospective" negotiations was this:

1.—A pact with Lithuania, giving Russia increased naval and military bases in the Baltic and transit privileges through that country, was seen as imminent; this was expected to facilitate the USSR's shipment of materials to Germany. Part of the Lithuanian mission has returned to Kaunas.

2.—Negotiations with Turkey appeared to have bogged down, since more than a week has passed since the Turkish Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu has seen Soviet Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov.

3.—A Finnish delegate, Dr. Juho Kusti Paasikivi, was expected to arrive Wednesday in response to a Soviet "invitation" to diplomatic talks on top of the economic ones already under way. It was understood unofficially that Finland, backed by the moral support of the Scandinavian countries, especially Sweden, would not submit as readily to the Soviet demands as had Estonia and Latvia. Both these Baltic states have granted the Soviet air and naval bases and transit privileges.

4.—Russia announced speedy agreement with a German trade delegation that arrived only yesterday. Foreign circles, however, refused to be impressed by claims of magnitude of the deal.

COLD STORAGE

Chicago, Oct. 9.—(AP)—More than 100 rural Illinois counties are being served by cold storage locker plants in which farmers rent space for fresh meats, fruits, and vegetables. E. E. Houghton, treasurer of the Pure Milk Association, told the agricultural club today.

Weather

For Jacksonville and vicinity: Clearing and cooler today; fair and rising temperature tomorrow. The Norbury Sanatorium, cooperative observer for the U. S. Weather Bureau, last night gave temperatures as high 85, low 63 and at 6 p. m. yesterday 71.

Rainfall—1 inch.

Illinois: Clearing and cooler Tuesday preceded by showers in morning in south and east portions; Wednesday fair, rising temperature in north and central portions in afternoon.

TOO MANY TURTLES Husband Plays "Joke" on Wife—And Police

Minneapolis, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Police squad 23, manned by Patrolmen A. O. Damberg and Luther Simpson, answered one of those routine complaint calls to a residence last night to be greeted by a woman who asserted her apartment was full of turtles.

Damberg and Simpson looked quickly at the complainant, Mrs. Michael J. Hennissen, then accompanied her back to her apartment.

Sure enough, the place was full of turtles.

There were turtles under the bed, under radiators, in the pantry and all over the place.

Entered Mrs. Hennissen's husband, Apologizing, he explained he had been on a fishing trip, and had gathered up a basket of the hard-shells to bring home as a joke on his wife.

The cops counted 50 and gave up.

SUPREME COURT TAKES 3 LABOR DISPUTE CASES

Few National Issues Before The Tribunal This Session

Washington, Oct. 9.—(AP)—In its first business session of the new term the supreme court decided today to adjudicate three controversies stemming from labor's factional struggle.

In each the American Federation of Labor has attacked rulings by the National Labor Relations Board favorable to the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

One involves the certification of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (CIO) as bargaining agent of longshoremen on the entire Pacific coast. This question hinges for the present on a single technical point—whether the certification is reviewable by the courts.

In two other cases the NLRB had appealed from AFL victories in lower courts.

In contrast with the number of important federal questions decided at the last term, relatively few cases of national interest, aside from those involving the labor act, have been placed before the high court this far this year.

Actions Reviewed

In the more far-reaching cases, the court took these actions:

Declined to review a decision of the sixth federal circuit court setting aside a federal trade commission order that the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company cease selling tires to Sears, Roebuck & Co. at "discriminatory prices."

Refused to interfere with a seventh federal circuit court finding that stockholders of the defunct Central Republic Trust Company, Chicago, were liable on a Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan, of which $56,599,746 was unpaid when the suit was begun. The loan was made while Charles G. Dawes was chairman of the bank's board, and shortly after he left the position of RFC president.

Refused to reconsider its June 5 decision upholding constitutionality of milk marketing regulations in the New York and Boston areas ordered by Secretary Wallace.

Treasury To Begin Raising New Cash

Washington, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau announced tonight the treasury would begin raising cash next week by increasing from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 the size of its weekly sale of 91-day discount bills.

It was learned authoritatively that the $150,000,000 figure probably would be continued beyond next week if the initial offering was well received by investors.

Morgenthau, explaining the purpose of raising cash at this time, said he did not want the treasury's cash working balance to go much, if any, below its present figure of $400,000,000. He wants enough cash on hand so that the treasury could go through any period of jittery markets without having to raise cash under unfavorable circumstances.

He said this policy proved successful last month when the treasury passed up its usual September 15 financing operations because the then new European war was depressing the market prices of government securities.

COTTON CROP WILL BE AS LARGE AS IN 1938

Washington, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Although dry weather in September cut the indicated cotton crop by 52,000 bales, production is expected to be nearly equal to that of last year, the agricultural department reported today.

Conditions Oct. 1 indicated a crop of 11,928,000 bales, as against 11,943,000 bales gained last year. In 1937, 18,946,000 bales were gained. The 1938-39 average was 13,800,000 bales.

The indicated yield Oct. 1 was 235.7 pounds to the acre, or one-tenth of a pound below last year's average. In 1938 the yield was 269.9 and in 1937-38 the average was 190.9.

USE ROOSEVELT NAMES AS 'RED' FRONT PRESTIGE

Witness Before Dies Group To Resign As Communist

Washington, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Kenneth Goff, former divinity student, told the Dies committee today that the names of President and Mrs. Roosevelt were bandied about by young Communist League members promoting "Communist front" organizations.

Goff, 25, identified himself as a member of the league's national committee but announced early in the hearing that he was resigning both from YCL and the Communist party at the conclusion of the day's testimony.

The witness said that he himself, in promoting a pilgrimage to Washington under the sponsorship of the American Youth Congress, used a letter the president wrote to the congress in 1937. The witness described the congress as a Communist front organization.

White House Tea

He also related that he had heard William H. Hinesley, who he said was a Communist as well as chairman of the youth congress, boast of having tea with Mrs. Roosevelt. The witness said that other Communists picked by Hinesley were present at the tea which he "understood" was at the White House in 1937.

"Did this add to their prestige?" asked Chairman Dies (R-Tex.).

"Sure," said Goff. "I was looking forward to that when I'd have tea with her myself."

He added that Communists, in soliciting prospective members, would point to such an alleged association with Mrs. Roosevelt or some other prominent person and say:

"Why are you afraid to join the Communist party? Look at the people we associate with."

Political Club In State Civil Service, Claim

Chicago, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Civil Service Protective Association in a bulletin today said civil service employees were being solicited for 2 per cent payroll contributions to the "Illinoisan Club."

The bulletin, issued over the name of Clayton H. Devine, association president, told civil service employees: "do not pay any political campaign assessments or join any political club, involuntarily."

Charging "coercion and intimidation" is being practiced, the bulletin stated:

"In one instance a man claiming to be from Democratic headquarters xxx has visited the Lincoln State School and Colony for 10 days or two weeks, calling all state civil service employees of that institution in and informing them that they are to pay up all back dues in the 'Illinoisan Club' and sign up for another year, and if they refuse he threatens by informing them that he has instructions to tell them to 'pay up or else.'"

Miss Loretta Bahen, association assistant secretary, said the organization was formed in 1928 and had statewide membership.

D. C. Stephenson Is Ill In Indiana Jail

Noblesville, Ind., Oct. 9.—(AP)—With D. C. Stephenson ill in Hamilton county jail, Circuit Judge Cassius M. Gentry announced today following conclusion of arguments that he would rule Tuesday afternoon Oct. 17, on the former Ku Klux Klan leader's new trial petition.

Stephenson was unable to appear in court today as arguments were resumed after a week-end recess. Dr. Joseph D. Sturdevant, called to the jail by Sheriff Joseph Newby, diagnosed Stephenson's illness as being due to gall stones and said further examination would be necessary to determine if an operation would be necessary.

The one-time Klan overlord is serving a sentence of life imprisonment for the alleged assault-murder in 1925 of Mudge Oberholzer, former state house worker.

DRUG STORE 'PHONE IS FIRST IN COUNTY

Sneedville, Tenn., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Business is picking up in Sneedville. A telephone was installed in a drug store today, giving Hancock county its first wire communication with the outside world in ten years.

The county, in the eastern Tennessee hills, has a population of approximately 9,500. A small telephone line into the county was discontinued about ten years ago.

"Tonight our appeal is to the compassionate heart of the American people."

"As we look out upon a world, unhealthily torn by war with all of its attendant horrors of death and destruction, we must remember, no matter how broad our sympathies, that charity begins at home."

IN LUXEMBOURG

Luxembourg, Oct. 9.—(AP)—While taxes and food prices soared in most of Europe, the Duchy of Luxembourg, which has no taxes, announced today that the cost for September were below the previous month.

CIO Opposition To NLRA Growing, John Lewis Hints

Indication Comes In Presidential Report To The Second CIO National Convention In San Francisco

San Francisco, Oct. 9.—(AP)—John L. Lewis, president of the CIO, hinted tonight the Congress of Industrial Organizations may turn against the National Labor Relations Act which it has defended repeatedly from attacks by employers and the AFL.

The hint came in Lewis' presidential report to the second CIO national convention in which he warned labor against "the illusion of prosperity brought by war," and in which he described unemployment as democracy's "number one problem."

Lewis sharply criticized recent administration of the Wagner act by the National Labor Relations Board, while reiterating the CIO's approval of the act.

Benefits Vs. Dangers

"But," he said, "when the act is so administered as to thwart the development and maintenance of stable industrial relations, then it becomes necessary to consider and weigh carefully whether the benefits of the act outweigh the dangers which its administration inflicts upon organized labor."

Tracing recent decisions of the board he commented: "In the face of the combined attack on the part of the AFL executive council and the reactionary interests all over the country the board has more than leaned over backwards in its administration of the law."

Lewis also attacked the federal government's "hesitant half steps toward solution" of unemployment, which he said must be solved "if we are to justify the effectiveness of our democracy; of our vaunted leadership in the economic field."

"The past year has seen a substantial halt in any steps toward a progressive economic program," Lewis said. "x x x Meanwhile the national economy is sliding in to a most serious condition. It is now clear that it is possible for the most important part of American industry to operate with a substantial and wholly satisfactory profit in the face of a national unemployment of 12,000,000 workers. x x x

Unemployment cannot be solved by a war boom, he said in stressing labor's concern that the United States keep out of war.

Lewis' report gave no indication of the CIO's finances or membership.

The week-long convention opens tomorrow amid rumors of a change in the set-up of international offices.

Unverified reports were that a paid secretary would be added and that international vice presidents would be increased from two to three or seven.

Fleet Of Nazi Ships In Service For Repatriation

Berlin, Oct. 10.—(Tuesday)—(AP)—Posters appeared on all bill-boards today signed by the chief of police stating that the classes of 1911 and 1912 had been called up "without public notification."

The posters said that all those who had not received the order by today must nevertheless report immediately to police stations.

Riga, Latvia, Oct. 9.—(AP)—A great exodus of Germans from the Baltic states was in full swing tonight with a big fleet of German vessels pressed into service to carry settlers from countries passing under Russian domination to territories newly-added to Adolf Hitler's Reich.

Ten German steamers already were in Riga's harbor. Four others were at Lepajai (Albani) and Ventspils (Windau). All were loading emigrants from Latvia, with their belongings.

Four other vessels arrived at Tallinn, Estonia, to take Germans from that country.

Lithuania has a common border with Germany and emigration from that country may be handled by rail. Repatriation is obligatory only in the cases of German citizens; in Latvia they number only 4,500.

Latvian citizens of the German race, however, were estimated here to number 56,000, of which 38,000 were residents of Riga. (The population of Riga in 1935 was 385,000.)

German Holdings
Latvia's largest newspaper estimated the value of German holdings in Latvia at 1,500,000 Reichsmarks (about $600,000,000). It was said that some rich Germans apparently control much of the country's industry and have vast real estate holdings.

It was generally believed in Riga that about half of the Latvian Germans, chiefly young people, would emigrate.

The semi-official newspaper Rita said Germany wants to establish clear relations with all neighbors to eliminate possible trouble over minorities.

The Home Front of America

Washington, Oct. 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt asserted in a radio address tonight that community chests are America's home front and added, significantly, that "our home front must be defended at all hazards."

The president spoke, by radio, in behalf of the 1939 mobilization for human needs and in support of community chests which handle local relief problems in many American cities.

His repeated use of military terms evidenced, perhaps, his concern over the war in Europe. He referred directly to that conflict when he briefed the outset of his brief speech:

"Tonight our appeal is to the compassionate heart of the American people."

"As we look out upon a world, unhealthily torn by war with all of its attendant horrors of death and destruction, we must remember, no matter how broad our sympathies, that charity begins at home."

SWEDEN ERECTS BOMB SHELTERS, ENLARGES ARMY

Scandinavians See A Threat To Trade In Soviet Parleys

Stockholm, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The first bomb-proof shelters in Sweden were under construction in Stockholm tonight and about 100,000 Swedish army reserves were ordered to remain in service as disquiet developed in northern Europe.

The neutral countries about the North and Baltics were strengthened their ties in a view of a threat to their Baltic trade and showed sharp concern in the impending conversations between Soviet Russia and Finland at Moscow.

"Because of changes in the foreign situation the government has ordered that those military men who should have left the service Oct. 15 shall remain in service until further notice," said a Swedish government communiqué tonight.

100,000 Affected

The order concerns the class of 1938 and other men mobilized Sept. 2. No official figure of those involved was given out but it was estimated by military observers that about 100,000 men would be affected. Swedish authorities estimated they could place 600,000 men with different degrees of military training in the field if necessary. The regular army strength before the European crisis was estimated at 600,000 men.

The air raid shelters, 10 to 12 of them ordered by Stockholm civil authorities, were the first ever started in Sweden.

On the Swedish-Finnish frontier tonight, the whole Torne valley, an area of about 4,000 square miles, was blacked out in air raid practice.

Reports from Haparanda, in northern Sweden, said Finnish aviation forces practiced bomb attacks and anti-aircraft exercises all day on the Finnish side of the frontier.

Iroquois Near United States; Sub Is Sighted

Portland, Me., Oct. 9.—(AP)—As the "threatened" American refugee liner Iroquois neared the United States tonight navy officials declined comment on whether a search was underway for a strange submarine reported sighted within striking distance of the vessel's normal course.

A coast guard plane from the Salem, Mass., airbase flew over the area where the mystery craft was reported seen yesterday morning by Arthur R. Greenleaf, Maine sea and shore fisheries' commissioner, but coast guardsmen described the flight as a routine patrol.

Greenleaf said that while cruising in a small boat 15 miles south of Portland he sighted a gray submarine moving in a south-easterly direction—a course that might cross the path of the Iroquois, which under normal conditions would pass Nantucket Shoals, about 200 miles from the coast, tomorrow.

Heavily guarded by a convoy of U. S. naval vessels, the Iroquois is bound from Elre with 584 Americans fleeing the European war zone. She is due in New York on Wednesday.

The convoy was ordered when German Grand Admiral Erich Raeder notified President Roosevelt he had learned the Iroquois would be sunk.

No Bid Received

Reports from Berlin have said Germany would like the United States or some other neutral to mediate the war. Barkley took the position that (Continued on Page Six)

Rain Relieves Dry Spell In Mid-west

Chicago, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Rain relieved a protracted drought in broad sections of the west today.

The precipitation, ranging from light showers in some places to heavy downpours in others, fell in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Indiana.

The moisture was expected to facilitate fall plowing and expedite the seeding and germination of wheat in areas where such farm operations had been delayed for a month or more by aridity.

Additional rain was forecast for north central states lying east of the Mississippi river.

Cooler weather was expected over most of the district after the temperature reached a record of 83.6 degrees in Chicago.

C. of C. Slate For Illinois Nominated

Chicago, Oct. 9.—(AP)—W. F. Gerdes, Quincy, Ill., manufacturer, was nominated today for the presidency of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

Roy Ingersoll, head of a steel concern in Chicago, was named for the vice presidency.

The board of directors of the State Chamber will vote on these candidates as well as the re-nominations of S. Nirdlinger of Galesburg, Ill., as treasurer, and C. G. Ferris as executive secretary, at the chamber's annual meeting Oct. 12 and 13 in Chicago.

If elected, Gerdes will succeed George Price Ellis of Chicago, who will become chairman of the board.

TAZEWELL HUSKING IS WON BY 20-YEAR-OLD

Morton, Ill., Oct. 9.—(AP)—By the slender margin of eight tenths of a bushel, Harold Zobrist, 20, Deed Creek farmer, today won the Tazewell county cornhusking championship with a total of 32.97 bushels.

Zobrist's 80 minutes of work was watched by 2,000 spectators. Everett Warner, Delavan, husked 32.17 bushels. Francis Creemens, last year's champion, finished seventh.

DOUGLAS HUSKING

Tuscola, Ill., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Douglas county corn husking contest is scheduled tomorrow at Primm farm, one mile west of here. George Rund, last year's champion, is among the seven entries.

UNHAPPY BURGLAR He Gets In Store But Can't Get Out Again

Los Angeles, Oct. 9.—(AP)—A voice told a police telephone operator early today "there is a burglar in a grocery store."

"How do you know there is?" asked the operator.

"I am the burglar and I can't get out."

Radio patrol officers went to the store and arrested a transient who said he entered through a barricade erected during remodeling. The board he had pried loose became wedged back in such a way he could not get out and the store was securely locked otherwise.

GERMAN PLANES, NAVAL UNITS OF BRITAIN 'CLASH'

No Details Released; Chamberlain Evades Stand On Peace

London, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Repeated clashes today between British warships and German bombing planes in the northeast area of the North Sea were reported tonight by the admiralty which said there were no British casualties.

The admiralty disclosed no details of the encounters and said it had no information as to how the Germans fared.

A German naval squadron of undisclosed strength was asserted to have escaped a British naval patrol off the south coast of Norway yesterday.

"Our forces endeavored to engage it," the admiralty announced, "but darkness enabled the enemy to escape."

Scouting activity by British planes over the entire length of the western front was reported by "eyewitnesses," the official correspondent with the British forces in France said.

On the home front, Britain maintained an unyielding stand in her war of words with Adolf Hitler and watched carefully the effect of each move on opinion in the United States and other neutral countries.

Prime Minister Chamberlain indicated the nation's announced war policy—"smashing Hitlerism" and "ending the fear of German aggression in Europe"—remained unchanged by Hitler's peace proposals of last Friday.

Chamberlain avoided a direct answer to a question in Commons on whether Britain and France would publish jointly a more specific outline of terms on which they would make peace.

Both press and official circles emphasized the importance of neutral opinion.

The influential London Times declared that neutrals would insist that "no possibility of conciliation be neglected."

The British and French governments were in consultation on a reply to Hitler's peace overtures. Chamberlain was expected to voice it when he gives Parliament his weekly war report Wednesday.

(French Premier Daladier meanwhile arranged to broadcast an address at 8 p. m.—1 p. m. C. S. T.—Tuesday.)

Slaying Uncovers Slot Machine War

Chicago, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Capt. Martin McCormick of the Warren avenue police said tonight he was investigating a theory that a Wisconsin mob might have been responsible for the slaying of Amerigo Bertolini on the west side last night.

A slot machine found in Bertolini's car, McCormick said, was found to have been sold by a Chicago novelty company to a purchaser in Racine, Wis.

The machine was installed in a country club west of Racine. McCormick said, and a short time ago it was hijacked by seven men.

"I have information that Bertolini was warned three times to stop stealing slot machines," McCormick reported.

Bertolini, 45 years old, with a police record dating back to 1918, was slain by two shotgun blasts as he was about to step into his new automobile. Investigators were able to obtain only vague descriptions of his slayer.

ANNIVERSARY LIQUOR BRINGS COURT ACTION

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Internal revenue agents charged that Andrew Podresky had liquor in his home upon which no federal tax had been paid.

That was true—as far as it went, Podresky told Federal District Judge Charles G. Briggie. But, he added, the offending nectar was brewed by Mrs. Podresky as a surprise

The Year We Get Counted

Next year is the year we all get counted. The census taker will call around, ask a few questions and make a few notes which will go into the hopper at Washington along with millions of other statistics to later emerge as the 1940 census report.

The government already is getting ready to count noses, but the population census will be only a part of the huge check on the nation's citizens, business and resources. Some say that Uncle Sam is getting more inquisitive each time he carries on a national census. There is no doubt but that the government will find out
a lot of things about people and their business affairs.

The business census as required by law will include the volume of business for 1939; how much was done on credit; stocks on hand at the beginning and end of the year; accounts
receivable; number of employees;
total payroll; extent of self-employment,
which means proprietor or owner-
and unpaid family members; and other information by which the volume of American business will be measured.

The census of business and manufacturers will be started Jan. 2, 1940,
but the census of population, the farm census and housing census will not start until next April 1.
As in all census undertakings there are laws to protect those enumerated
by keeping all answers confidential.
Census figures are available only to sworn census employees and not available except in broad statistical form
to any other agency in or out of the government.

Hitler's Bodyguard

Associated Press dispatches indicate that Adolf Hitler has created a new personal line of defense to be known as the "Rehrer corps." This band of picked men armed to the teeth, will accompany the fuhrer on all occasions, whether at his own home, or homes, or when he takes trips to the battle front.

Means for repelling personal attacks on the leader of a nation are always a problem. Our own American president is guarded and shielded

every hour of the day by a few
secret service men of known courage
and ability to prevent any attempt on the president's personal safety.
In war, the guard would be increased even in this country, and in Europe the personal dangers to a national leader are known to be immensely greater than here.
All of which recalls an incident in history concerning President Abraham Lincoln. He took a trip to the battle front near Richmond in the closing days of the war. Fearing for his safety after he had been in that region for several days, the secretary of war wired Lincoln to keep well in the rear, advising against going to General Grant's headquarters. Lincoln wired back that he had already been to Grant's tent and spent several hours with him, and had returned to his own base safely.

City Manager Petition

The Chicago City Manager Committee, organized to promote interest in the city manager form of municipal government, is procuring signatures to a monster petition for submission of the following proposal:

"Shall the people of the cities and villages of Illinois be given the right to vote upon the question of adopting or rejecting the city manager plan of municipal government under which the proportional representation method may be used for electing members
of city and village councils?"

Circulation of the petition calls attention to the fact that Illinois has a public policy law, under which the people's attitude toward legislative proposals can be ascertained. The legislature, to date, has refused to pass an enabling act by which its municipalities can adopt this form of government.

Four hundred thousand signatures
must be secured before the proposal
is submitted, but it is not expected
the promoters will be handicapped in getting the required number. Few persons are disposed to turn down the initiation of any legislation, or its presentation for the public's reaction.
The question probably will appear on the ballot at some future election.

Good Old October

(From the Champaign-Urbana
News-Gazette)

Month of football, month of autumn, month of sunny roasts and steak fries, month of bright, invigorating weather, we'll vote for October
as a favorite!

October, we believe, typifies the glorious season of the entire year.
True, the seasonal variety of summer,
autumn, winter and spring are usually all welcome, when they come to give our minds new thoughts, bring changes in recreational pursuits, induce the wearing of different apparel.
But October—with its perennially
high percentage of fine weather—
combining exhilarating nights, cool-
not-too-hot but sunny days and adds
the gorgeous autumnal foliage to the landscape picture for those who like
the out-of-doors.

It's a great time to travel, in October. Short week-end trips are the best most of us can get in at this business season, but seldom do you have to worry about what nature has in store
in the way of storms.

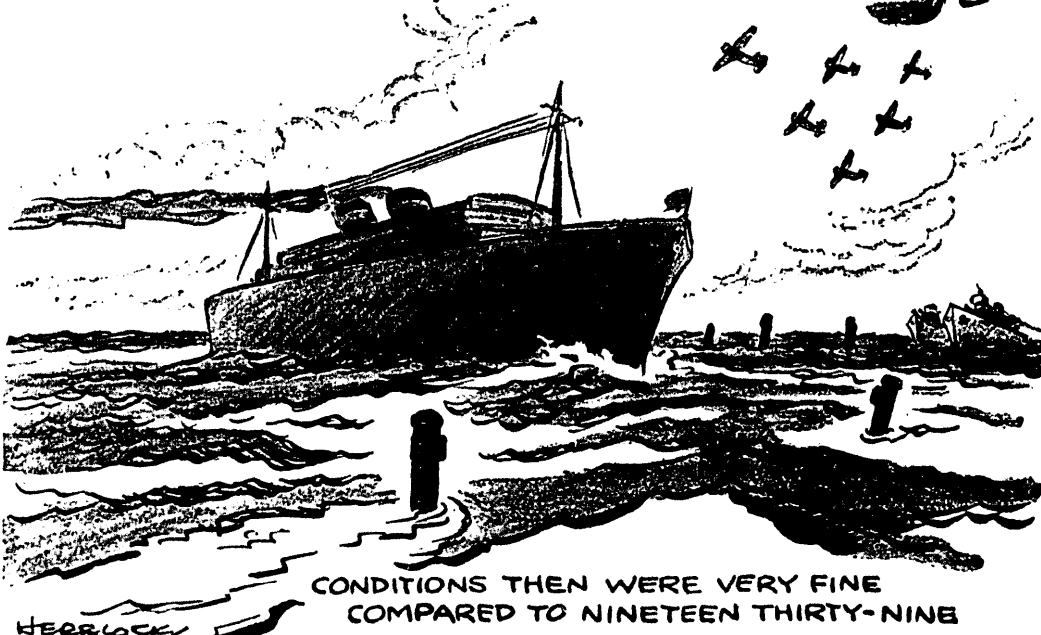

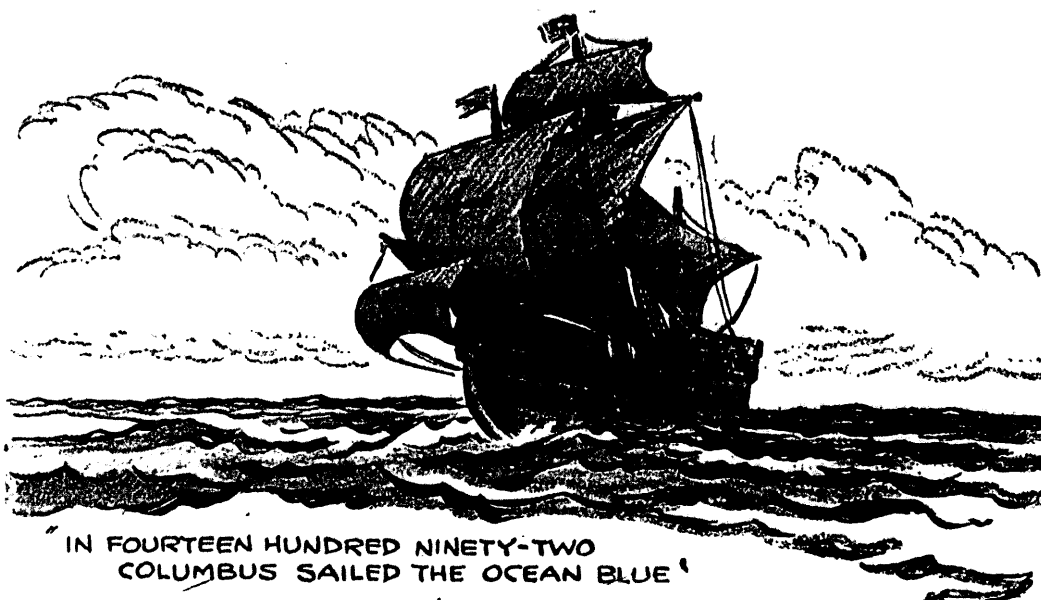

And in the lengthening evenings,
kindle a fire in the grate, bring in a pan of apples, or a pitcher of fresh
cider, and muse on this old verse:

"O suns and skies and clouds of June,
And flowers of June together,
Ye cannot rival for one hour
October's bright blue weather."

SMALL TALK

Good morning. The Big Ten, long considered—at least by the Big Ten—
as the aristocrat of football conferences, took a jolting Saturday
that thoroughly ruffled its dignity.
The jolters were two teams from the Big Six, and a bunch of southern gentlemen from Texas U. Of course the big upset of the day was the stunning 23 to 0 defeat handed the highly touted Northwestern eleven by the Oklahoma Sooners. Oklahoma, champions of the Big Six, unbeaten
in their last 16 contests, piled into Evanston, decidedly the underdogs
because—well, largely because Ten is bigger than Six, as far as we can

Ocean Crossing

see. What followed was what put you and us and every other football fan right under the rug. Twenty-three to nothing, wow! Northwestern derived a bit of satisfaction from the occasional flashes of brilliance by Bill De Corveaux, but when you are being sat on to the tune of 23 to 0
by what was supposed to be the underdog, you don't get much satisfaction from anything.

Oklahoma University has assumed something of a personality here in the last couple of years. Elmer Lukeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C.
Lukeman, transferred to Oklahoma
after two years at I. C. Herb Schef-ler, Springfield boy who made baseball and basketball history at Illinois College two and three years ago,
is also at Oklahoma. Jim Taylor,
well known track man, is the third of the I. C. transfer-trio to back the Sooners as classmates.

Minnesota's defeat at the hands of Nebraska, though it was only 6 to 0
saw the Monday morning quarterbacks something to think about, too.
And Texas University wasn't figured too heavily to beat Wisconsin, but they did.

Yes sir, Saturday was some day.
Makes us think of the title of the forthcoming Joe Penner picture,
"The Day the Bookies Wept."

When we heard the score of the Illinois-College-Hanover game, 10 to 0 for Hanover, we thought that the Blueboys must have done all right
by themselves—considering Hanover had dumped DePaul the week before. But the kids aren't feeling too good about it. They rolled up ten first downs to Hanover's five,
but seemed to be suffering from fumbleitis. Well, so it goes. Maybe the boys worked all that out against Hanover, and won't be afflicted during their conference engagements.

Interested in the new "Beau Geste," showing currently at the Illinois. (No, we're not trying to make a movie critic out of ourselves.
Just like to talk about "em.) Saw
"Beau Geste" yesterday, and learned among other things that we had been pronouncing the name incorrectly. Our five minutes of French should have told us the "G" was soft.

Anyhow, you may make interesting comparisons between the silent version of the story and the present picture. Ronald Colman had the lead in the original, and we imagine he made a different person of Beau.
Cooper is so boyish, which of course is part of his attraction. Colman is, well, just Ronald Colman, which is quite a compliment. Take your choice. We didn't see the silent "Beau Geste."

Brian Donlevy has been credited with stealing this picture. He does a swell job—but he has the kind of part that is bound to stick up like a sore thumb. Robert Preston and Ray Milland are both tops. Remember Preston in "Union Pacific?"
Quite a boy.

So that takes care of football and movies for today. What a dull world
it would be without football or movies. Of course the world series is over and done, but most everyone

A beautiful and impressive wedding ceremony was solemnized Monday morning at the Church of Our Saviour
when Miss Mildred Webster, daughter of Roy Webster, Springfield, became the bride of Edward R. Everingham, son of Mrs. A. H. Metcalf, 349 East Becher avenue. The Rev. Fr. An-druskevitch celebrated the nuptial mass.

Members of the two families and intimate friends of the bridal couple were present for the ceremony. The matron of honor, Mrs. Floyd Webster of Springfield, and bridesmaid preceded the bride and best man, William Kelly, while the wedding march from Lohengrin was played.
During the ceremony and nuptial
mass, Miss Ring presided at the organ.
The bride, who is slim and dark, made
a lovely picture in a simple ivory satin
wedding gown made with long sleeves
and full skirt. Her veil was finger-tip length, worn in coronet style. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses
and white snapdragons tied with tulle
and satin ribbon. The matron of honor was charmingly dressed in an aqua
blue taffeta gown, fashioned with closely-fitted bodice and full floor-length skirt. Her turban was of beige velvet. She carried an arm bouquet of Talsman roses.

The Mendelssohn wedding march
was played as the recessional while the bridal party left the church
to go to the home of the bride for the wedding breakfast. Only immediate families were present. Shortly afterward Mr. and Mrs. Everingham left for a short honeymoon.

Mrs. Everingham was graduated from Routh High school and the Springfield junior college. Mr. Ever-ingham was educated in St. Louis.

ensemble with lipstick red accessories.

Dr. Pontius Receives Eight Additions to Church,
Addresses Couples

Unusually large audiences were present at the Home Coming services
Sunday at the Central Christian church. There were eight additions to the church at the morning service.
In the morning service Dr. Pontius presented the fact that while the authority on Jesus may rest upon many things it should be remembered that following his baptism when he became conscious of his Messiahship,
voluntarily he went down into desert
solitude. There he spent approximately one thousand hours in quiet
intellectual processes and in silent spiritual meditation. The authority of his ministry and teaching rests in part upon this experience. From the desert solitude he came forth with a well-formulated program and a clearly defined message.

B. O. Roodhouse presided in presenting the program after the basket
dinner. Following the introduction of guests Mrs. Lois Hardin sang,
"Coming Home" accompanied by Miss Mathis. Mr. Roodhouse presented the guest speaker, Prof. Paul Rowland who brought a masterful message upon the theme, "Eastern Europe in Turnmoil." The speaker clearly presented the continued conflict through the centuries between Slav and Teu-
ton; indicating that in the present crisis Hitler has been defeated at every turn.

Without firing a gun Stalin has pushed the Slav boundary line two hundred miles west, acquiring a considerable portion of Poland. Stalin's diplomacy has enabled him to contact Estonia to his advantage and make overtures to Finland, thus practically assuring him of an ice-free outlet in the North Baltic.

At 7:30 Dr. Pontius preached to couples he has married during the past quarter of a century. It was an anniversary message upon the theme, "After Twenty-five Years."
The space reserved for Married Couples was completely filled. The couples came from three states; Illinois, Missouri and Iowa; the majority of them coming from Central Illinois.

Dr. Pontius welcomed the guests,
expressing appreciation and greeting.
He referred to the changes in Jacksonville during the past twenty-five years. In 1914 when he became pastor of the local church there were hitchhacks for horses about the church lot; there were also facilities
for hitching horses about the square.
There were no garages in Jacksonville at that time; there were several large livery barns. In 1914 there were five banks in Jacksonville, today there are two. Twenty-five years ago there was but one chain store in Jacksonville. In 1914 West State street and West College avenue were almost impassable; the brick pavement was in a bad state of deterioration.

Twenty-five years ago the evening church service was more largely attended than the morning service. At that time the church afforded few
social privileges to the young people and the present recreational program
would have been forbidden.
Twenty-five years ago the first World War was in progress. During the intervening years we have lost
many things; among them the appreciation of the value of character.
A quarter of a century ago character

was good collateral and many a man borrowed money, not because he had tangible wealth, but because he had unquestioned character. Money cannot be borrowed today upon character. The fault is not wholly with the money lender. We have lost honesty and integrity; ethics are in many instances dead; ideas that should live are dying and ideas are languishing. We need to return to the simply practical teaching of

Among Jacksonville baseball fans

who saw the first world's series played in St. Louis in 1888.

The New York Nationals beat the St. Louis American Association by the score of 8 to 4. The National and Old American Association leagues
clashed in those days, as the American league was not developed until some years later.

A large group of fans from this city attended the series. Of the party only two are alive, Mr. Keating and Jerry Flynn of the Buckhorn neighborhood.

Mr. Keating said that Tim Keefe
was pitcher for New York and Carruthers for St. Louis. "Tip" O'Neal who died several years ago also played in the series. O'Neal was well known among local ball fans.

Carl Dohnal Weds Miss Maxine Wright At College Chapel

Former Local Teacher and Wisconsin Man Married
Sunday at High Noon

Jones Chapel, Illinois College was the scene of a beautiful wedding Sunday at high noon, when Miss Maxine Miller Wright, daughter of James A. Wright, Sullivan, Illinois, and Carl Kenneth Dohnal, son of Mrs. Emilia Dohnal, of Peshtigo, Wis., were united in marriage. The Episcopal wedding service was read by Dr. Myron L. Pontius, pastor of Central Christian church, before a large group of friends and relatives. The single ring service was used.

Mrs. Francis Plouffe sang a group of selections preceding the ceremony, accompanied by Miss Alice Mathis, at the organ. The numbers were "At Dawning," "Because," "Ich liebe dich." During the ceremony "Oh Perfect Love" was played on the organ by Miss Mathis.

The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Miss Mathis for the processional, which was by the south aisle. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played for the recessional.

The bride was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Henry Wright, of Virginia, as matron of honor. Henry Wright, brother of the bride served the groom as best man. The ushers were William Crabbe and Milton Edge.

The impressive vows were taken before the altar, where ferns, and palms, also large baskets of gladioli and lighted candelabra were used in an effective setting for the bridal party.

The bride was charmingly gowned in a beautiful white slipper satin dress fashioned with a long train. The fitted bodice with puffed sleeves had a V neck line, beaded with seed pearls. Her veil of French tulle was in tiara effect, also beaded, arranged with blusher veil. White satin sandals and satin mitts completed her bridal attire. Her only ornament was a pearl necklace. She carried a shower bouquet of gardenias and white roses, with white satin streamers; also a lace handkerchief, 100 years old, which was carried by her aunt.

Mrs. Wright, as matron of honor was a lovely dress of delphinium blue taffeta, princess style with shirred yokes and sweetheart neckline. Her ornament was a cameo pin, and her flowers were an arm bouquet of Happy Days roses. Flowers were also worn as a headdress and her sandals were in matching blue.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the David A. Smith house, where the members of Sigma Phi Epsilon literary society, of which the bride was a former member, assisted in entertaining. In the dining room, Miss Hester Burbridge assisted at the table where a large three tiered wedding cake, in pink and white adorned the center, and was cut by the bride.

Leave for New Orleans

Mr. and Mrs. Dohnal left for a wedding trip to New Orleans and upon their return, will be at home in Des Moines, Iowa, 1519 Grand avenue. The bride's going away outfit was an ensemble in blue with hat, in English style to match. She wore a center corsage of gardenias, from the bridal shower bouquet.

Mrs. Dohnal has been prominently identified with educational circles and social life of this city. She has many friends in Jacksonville, where she graduated from Illinois college and taught in the Washington school for a number of years.

Carrollton Firemen Make Suggestions

Object to Making Rural Runs
Unless Guaranteed Wages
and Expenses

Carrollton.—Tuesday evening at a meeting of the city council the officers and members of the city fire department registered an objection to the rule made by the council on out-of-town runs. The fire company objected to answering rural calls unless all expenses are guaranteed. A suggestion was previously made that if the department made a country run it was up to them to make the collection of all expenses. This was $15 to the city for use of truck and all wages and expense involved, and that while on the trip the members waived all accident indemnity carried by the city.

Officers and members of the department met again Friday night and resolutions were adopted that the department be run by the members separate from the council. That an alarm coming from out of the city limits must be phoned to the mayor or acting mayor and that if he is satisfied that all expenses are guaranteed the run will be made, otherwise no response will be made. This does not apply to nearby cities' calls as this city may have to call on them for help in handling a fire at any time.

Another resolution adopted was to change back to the old system of sound- ing an alarm. When the operator at Central receives an alarm in the future she will immediately start the ringing of the fire bell. Then she will call members of the department, notify water works. The first driver to arrive at fire station will start truck and leave for fire with as many members as may be on hand. For the past year, when an alarm was sounded, Central called the various members and no bell sounded until the truck was on its way to the fire. The change a year ago was made to try to keep motorists from following the department too close, but complaint lately were that the method was too slow and too much time was lost in summoning members. Motor drivers are warned that the state statutes forbid following too close any fire apparatus, and all members of any fire company have full police right to arrest and prosecute violators.

Betty Rogers Wins Scout Essay Award Presented Monday

Three Girls, Two Boys Place
Highest in Contest; Girl
Writes Good Thesis

The winners of the boy and girl scout essay contest were announced Monday morning in a special assembly at the David Prince junior high school. First place went to Betty Rogers, second to J. queline Tankersley, third to Elizabeth Thurman and fourth to Bob Underbrink. The awards were presented by O. Lindgren, local field executive. James Wood received honorable mention.

"What my Parents Think of the Girl Scout Program" was the title of the winning essay by Betty Rogers. All contestants were required to discuss the attitude of their parents toward the Scout movement. The winning essay follows:

Betty Rogers Says—
"My parents both agree that the Girl Scout program is a wonderful thing for the girls of America. My father believes that there is no other organization as good as the Girl Scouts which gives girls the training in how to be a good citizen and how to be followers as well as leaders. They think that Scouts have such a wonderful background and fit so very well with Americanism. The way in which it teaches girls to respect the flag and the country to which it belongs is an important fact."

"Mother believes that the most wonderful thing about Scouting is that it is not for the underprivileged child and not for the privileged child, but for every girl of America."

"Mother and Father both agree that it is a very fine thing the way Scouts teach girls to keep their eyes open when out-of-door on a camping trip. The idea of how to appreciate the flowers, trees, and rocks, the ways of animals, the knowledge she gains from the trail signs, and how to locate the North Star are all important."

"Most of all they admire the friendliness and helpfulness of the Girl Scouts to persons in need of it. Helping the poor, they believe, is an important thing in the Girl and Boy Scouts. To cook, sew, and make things herself, to care for small children and sick persons, and to give first aid to the injured are very important for girls to know."

"Father believes that this wonderful organization explains very clearly how to work and play in groups and how to enjoy what other people do and like it. More important yet is to fit in and get along."

The Girl Scout learns about her town or city, her state, her country, how they are governed and how she might best serve them."

"An important point is that Scouting is not only for girls of eleven on but also for younger girls of seven to ten. These girls, however, are not called Scouts, but something that means every bit as much, "Brownies." These are the Girl Scouts of later."

"My mother also believes that the Girl Scout laws are important points, for instance they teach us to be thrifty, thoughtful, trustworthy, kind, and clean in thought, word, and deed."

"Mother believes that it helps in teaching girls to take care of themselves at all times and to learn to think of other people before themselves. She thinks it is good for the girls in the way of exercise. It teaches them to walk long distances. It helps in teaching girls to swim, and to take care of a bicycle in case of an accident."

"The Girl Scout has no new land to explore or pioneer, but she explores new fields and knowledge, and, in addition to finding new pleasures, she discovers the happiness and joy of giving service."

"My family and I agree that we owe much to Juliette Low, the founder of Girl Scouts."

Los Angeles children may borrow a toy for a maximum of two weeks from a unique "toy library."

Hitler Didn't Impress Her

The acrobatic dancing of blond, blue-eyed Marion Daniels, pictured as she arrived in New York from Europe, made a deep impression on Adolf Hitler but Der Fuehrer failed to impress the young American. # White Sox Defeat Chicago Cubs, 6-1, Tying City Series

Final Game To Be Played
Under Lights at Chisox
Park Tonight

Chicago, Oct. 9.—(P)—Thornton Lee pitched the Chicago White Sox to a 6-1 victory over the Cubs tonight, giving each team three victories in their battle for the city baseball championship.

The big southpaw gave up three scratch hits and one run in the first inning. After "hand" the National League got only one hit, an infield hit by Stan Hack in the third. The official attendance was 26,980.

The final game of the title-deciding series, will be played under the lights of Comiskey field tomorrow night.

The Cubs' lone run came on singles by Augie Galan, Hank Leiber and Glen Russell, Galan crossing the plate for the tally.

Russell errs

The Sox got to the veteran Charley Root for their first run in the fourth when Mike Kreevich lived on Russell's error. An infield out put him on second and he scored on Gerald Walker's single to left field.

What proved to be the winning run was produced in the fifth Larry Rosenthal drove a hard single through Russell and Mike took him on second with a sacrifice. Olie Bejma scored Rosenthal with a sharp smash through third. The Sox added another tally in the sixth and three more for good measure in the eighth. Lee set the Cubs down without a hit in the last six innings, not a man reaching first after the third inning.

Dizzy Dean replaced Root at the start of the eighth, but puzzled the Sox no more than his predecessor.

Reds Blow Two Run Lead In Ninth, Giving Yankees Title Again

Johnson Urges
Senate Recess
For Peace Bid

Cincinnati, Oct. 9.—(P)—The one engrained memory of the 1939 world series ever will be the amazing sight of Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati's outside catcher, down and being stomped by relays of Yankees.

Somewhat, the scene is symbolical of the entire series. The New York Hooligans were not content to beat the Reds four straight, first with phenomenal pitching and then with a breath-taking exhibition of hitting, but they had to wind it up by making monkeys out of the National League.

This town has loved the Reds and taken a terrific pride in them all season, but after yesterday's final 7 to 4 beating, after having watched them blow a two-run lead in the ninth, the citizens filed out of Crosley Field muttering—"Those bums!"

They were particularly bitter about Lombardi, who probably set an all-time record for clumsiness in a single world series contest. But they also were breathing fire at the mention of Billy Myers, the ill-starred little shortstop who muffed a toss from Louie Frey on a perfect double-play ball and set off the Yankee stampede.

What appeared to prove the local more than otherwise was the fact the Reds lifted their hopes so high just before the defeat. If the Yankees simply had won the game about 7 to 0 it would have been better. After having watched the McCarthy-men bomb four homers in Saturday's game they were saying dejectedly:

"Those Yankees, they are too good. But our boys are giving them a fight, eh?"

There was a certain pride in getting licked by such a team. At least, there was no disgrace in bowing to what even the old-timers now admit is the greatest club there ever has been. But for the Reds to prove that they were capable of winning a game; to outpitch, outpitch and outfield the champs for eight innings; to go into the ninth with the ball game in their pockets and then fall smack to pieces—that made the good Burginians plain mad.

As a matter of fact, the Yanks got Lombardi down twice in the ninth and 10th innings, but it wasn't until the 10th that they began to trample him seriously. Ernie, at 216 pounds, simply isn't cat-like on his feet and never Paul Deringer. It is altogether probable that Willard Hershberger, the Reds' other catcher, who is nimble and alert, would have been putting out Yankees at the plate like a man stamping out a grass fire. Also, it is likely he will do most of the catching for the Reds next season.

Nobody would have suspected that the baseball gods had put the whammy on Myers and Ernie when the ninth opened. The Reds were ahead 4 to 2. Bucky Walters was pitching tight ball after having received Paul Deringer's aid in the previous inning, and the crowd of nearly 35,000 was going to crown The Yankees had made only three hits, two of them home runs by Charlie Keller and Bill Dickey.

Keller, the rookie batting hero of the series, started the strange string of events by singling to center. Joe DiMaggio scratched a blow to left, but still nobody was much worried. On the next pitch Dickey slapped a roller squarely at Frey—an easy double play. Lombardi flipped it to Myers. Myers dropped it, and the panic was on. Keller scored. Selkirk filed out, and on the next play Joe Gordon dumped a roller down the third-base line to Bill Werber, who fielded it beautifully and pegged to Lombardi in plenty of time to nip DiMaggio at the plate. Ernie dropped it and fell all over the infield as DiMaggio slid across with the tying run.

But that was only the ninth inning, and Lombardi hadn't even begun to suffer. Crossett walked to start the 10th, and was sacrificed to second. Keller grounded to Myers, who juggled the thing like it was red-hot. Take it away, Lombardi.

DiMaggio lined a hit to right, and everybody started running. Ival Goodman, caught up by the epidemic, let it get through him as Crossett scored, but recovered the agile quickly and made a perfect throw to the plate to cut off Keller.

Down went Lombardi. Keller and the ball in a cloud of dust. The ball rolled free. The crowd groaned, and so did Lombardi. DiMaggio circled third about this time, running like a scared rabbit, and headed for the mad scene around home plate.

Somewhere manager Ewing Lombardi grabbed the elusive peller, dived at DiMaggio, and down he went again. Ernie had been engulfed. The world series was just a painful memory. The only official protest was lodged by Coach Jimmy Wilson in the Reds' clubhouse.

"I don't think that DiMaggio went around the bases at all," he said. "He must have cut across on us."

Bill McKee, who now holds the doubtful distinction of being the only manager to lose two world series in consecutive games, had no word of complaint for his downcast and down-trodden players. He arranged a hunting trip with Myers for the winter.

The sign on the Reds bulletin board still said: "Next stop New York. Train leaves Monday at 5:30 p. m."

WILDCAT MOVIES

Evansville, Ill., Oct. 9.—(P)—Northwestern's football squad went to the movies today—pictures of their own starting defeat at the hands of Oklahoma in the Wildcats' opener Saturday.

Rain kept the squad indoors all afternoon. Coach Lynn Waldorf used the pictures to point out mistakes in the first game. He said blocking, polishing the offense and tightening the defense would be stressed this week in preparation for Saturday's game with Ohio State.

Lake Forest Plays Knox Saturday; To Work for Comeback

Was Undeclared Last Season
But Is Off to Bad Start;
Other I.C.C. Games

Chicago, Oct. 9.—(P)—Lake Forest, defeated in one of the two opening Illinois College conference games last week, plays Knox Saturday in an effort to bounce back into contention for the football title.

Last season Lake Forest went through the entire season undefeated but Augustana won Saturday, 6-0, when Don Allison raced 101 yards with an intercepted pass for the only score. Wheaton defeated North Central, 19 to 6, in the other league game. The Knox-Lake Forest tilt is the only conference game slated this week.

Knox won its second game from a non-league foe Saturday with a 19-0 decision over Ripon. Two other conference teams beat outside rivals, Monmouth defeating Carthage, 14 to 7, and Millikin trouncing Eureka, 27-0. Bradley and St. Louis U. played a scoreless tie, Illinois Wesleyan lost to Akron U., 13 to 6, and Hanover defeated Illinois College, 10 to 7.

This week-end's schedule, in addition to the Knox-Lake Forest game, follows: Augustana at St. Ambrose (Davenport, Iowa); Wisconsin State Teachers at Bradley; Coe at Monmouth; Concordia at North Central; Illinois College at Elmhurst; Wheaton at Northern Teachers; and Millikin at Eastern Teachers. Illinois Wesleyan will be idle.

Northern Teachers moved into a first-place tie with Eastern Teachers in the Illinois Intercollegiate conference, defeating Elmhurst, 13 to 0, Saturday. Elmhurst also was Eastern's victim.

Illinois Normal fought a 0-0 tie with Ypsilanti, Mich. Teachers, and Eureka and Carthage lost to Illinois College conference teams.

The only conference game on tap this week brings together Normal and Western at Macomb in the first league game for each team. Carthage plays Parsons at Fairfield, Iowa. Eureka engages Aurora. Southern Teachers entertain Arkansas State, and Northern Teachers, Eastern and Elmhurst take on teams from the Illinois College conference.

REVEAL ANOTHER OF WORLD'S BIG PESTS

Turns on Portable Radio
at Football Game to Disgust of Fans

Evansville, Ill., Oct. 9.—(P)—A woman sitting next to Clem Costigan, a Bloomington, Ill., insurance man, at the Northwestern-Oklahoma football game, bothered him no end because she tuned in a portable radio, relying on the announcer to tell her what was going on before her eyes.

After the game Costigan registered a protest at the Evansville police station, but was told there was no law against football fans carrying portable radios.

The officers, grinning, suggested he might wear earmuffs. Costigan said he had worn 'em, through nearly the whole game, but they were too darned hot!

Reds Errors Costly; $150,000 Goes Back To Ticket Holders

Changes In Cincinnati's
1940 Machine Forecast
By Series Play

Cincinnati, Oct. 9.—(P)—The tumult and shouting died along Vine street today. The captains and kings were gone. And the Cincinnati Reds' front office put a price tag of $37,500 each on those four ardent fans who helped the Yankees sweep the world series.

The club announced that tickets for the fifth game of the classic (and third scheduled here) would be refunded at certain banks beginning Tuesday.

On the basis of average gate receipts, they were worth around $150,000—and would have been usable this afternoon had it not been for that amazing ninth and tenth inning finale of Sunday's game in which the Yanks came from behind to win 7 to 4.

Billy Myers bobbled twice, Ival Goodman once and big Ernie Lombardi once, the while five runs crossed the plate.

"But the baseball for you," commented Skipper Bill McKee, quietly. "One could spend ten years trying to explain what happened and still never reach the heart of it. The human machine—and that's what baseball is—just gave way. The fans only saw the results...it actually happened where no one could see it..."

Many bewildered fans believed big Ernie's "dying swan" act in the tenth, on which both Charley Keller and Joe DiMaggio crossed the plate, might be prophetic of changes to be made for the 1940 season.

"Willard Hershberger'll do the bulk of the backstopping next year," they said, but Lombardi, last year's National League batting champion and most valuable player, was not without his supporters—and there the argument stood.

Lombardi himself was not to be found. In fact, Reds generally were scarce. They scattered to their far-flung homes almost immediately after the game.

The big catcher was represented as "naturally very disappointed and hurt" over his part in the disaster.

"Too bad it all had to end up that way," raved Goodman.

McKee said no plans for strengthening the club would be made until the winter baseball meetings.

FRISCH NOT IN FAVOR OF "WRECKING" YANKS

St. Louis, Oct. 9.—(P)—The world champion New York Yankees were being "preserved," not wrecked, Frankie Frisch said today.

Frisch, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and new manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, commented in an interview:

"I am not one of those who believes the Yankees should be broken up because they are too strong. It is a great club and should be preserved instead of wrecked. The National league will have its day and in the time to develop a team to match the Yanks."

New York Stock Market

New York, Oct. 9.—(P)—European peace talk remained as a retarding influence on the stock market today and leading issues shifted sluggishly over a narrow range.

With the ticker tape frequently at a standstill, the turnover for the five hours approximated 650,000 shares, smallest for a full session since the start of the war boom about six weeks ago.

Steels had their innings among the day's advancing groups as the American Iron & Steel Institute estimated this week's mill operations at 88.6 per cent of capacity, up 1.1 points from the previous week at the highest level since May 24, 1937. From a month ago the nation's steel-production rate has jumped 11.6 points.

Scattered motors, rails, utilities, air transports and mail orders managed to tack on modest gains during the proceedings but all were not successful in holding. Fractional declines were plentiful when the final gong sounded finish to the sleepy proceedings.

With Russia stepping out with strong backing for the Nazi armistice proposals, brokers said many of their customers inclined to stand aside or lighten commitments pending clarification of the confused picture abroad.

Europeans markets were quiet and irregular. U. S. government loans tilted upward in the bond department. Commodities were uneven. Wheat at Chicago was off 1 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel and corn up 1/4 cent. Cotton in late transactions, was unchanged to down 30 cents a bale.

WHEAT RALLIES TO REGAIN MOST LOSS

Chicago, Oct. 9.—(P)—After tumbling as much as 14 cents to the low level since September 2, wheat prices rallied today and recovered most of the early losses.

The fact that prices slid below the government loan level here for the first time in more than a month helped to stimulate buying after the day's lows had been reached. Some strength in securities and gains of as much as a cent in corn values, due partly to improved export business, also attracted attention.

Receipts were: wheat 43 cars, corn 523, oats 42.

Grain belt rains caused most of the early selling of wheat. Wheat closed 1 1/2 c lower than Saturday, December 80 1/2 c. May 80; 8 1/2 c, corn 1 1/2 c higher, December 49 1/2 c, May 52 1/2 c, oats unchanged to 1 c lower.

SERIAL STORY

WORKING WIVES

BY LOUISE HOLMES
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Dolly arrives at Marian's home to find her waiting for her. She is expecting her everything, her hopes of regaining Dan's love, her efforts to repair
the wreckage of their marriage.
Then she asks Dolly to call the doctor. "It's going to happen very soon."

CHAPTER XXX

It was after midnight. The hospital was quiet. The corridors were dark except for shaded lamps on the nurses' desks. Now and then a red light flashed over a door, reflecting itself in the shining floor. In a brightly lighted room, Marian was being lifted to a rubber-tired cart. She was pale, her eyes black with suffering. She caught Dolly's hand.

"You'll go with me?"

Dolly raised her eyes to the still genial face of Dr. Moss. "May I?"

He nodded.

Marian said, "I'm going to be brave, Dolly. But if I should forget myself, if I should beg for Dan, don't weaken, don't send for him. I've explained how I feel about Dan. I want to be ready for him. Promise me."

"I promise."

"And—if anything should happen—" She bit a quivering lip.
"Yes, dear."

"Tell him that I was brave. Tell him that I was happy to have his baby. Try to make him understand how much I love him—how much I have always loved him."

"You'll tell him yourself, darling." Dolly held her hand as the cart was trundled down the quiet
hall. She stood by staunchly.
When Marian cried out, "Dan—
Dan—" she soothed her gently.
After that there was blessed oblivion for Marian.

THE sun was making a rectangular patch on the carpet when she awoke. She stirred and Dolly went to the bed. She kissed Marian's white cheek.

"It's all over, darling," she said.
"A girl!"

"Yes, Dr. Moss says that she is the most beautiful little girl."

"A beautiful little girl. Her name is Glad—Glad Harkness."

Marian's long lashes fell, she was asleep. She looked very young and small in the high white bed.

They took Glad home after two weeks. Randy and Dolly and a strangely shaken Marian, took her home. Randy had been doubtful about the small apartment. He had suggested larger quarters and
nurses, a fleet of them, he said.
Marian had refused.

"No," she had said. "Glad's father is supporting her."

TRYING weeks followed. Marian's strength was slow in returning; the baby's food formula
had to be changed and changed

again. The summer heat came early, long scorching days, humid nights. Steadfastly, Marian cared for the baby, letting the house-
work slide, resting when the baby
slept.

Her love for the child was something like worship; she watched her development with a half fearful awe. To Marian, the tiny infant was a miracle, a God-
given miracle.

Randy and Dolly came every
day. They quietly installed comforts, an electric refrigerator
which the apartment did not afford, fans, linen sheets, which were cooler than mullins. Marian grew thin, blue shadows made her eyes enormous, her hands were rough from daily laundry work.

Dolly expostulated, she begged,
she even became angry. Randy talked earnestly to Marian. They were friends. What were friends for, anyway? He'd send a maid, two maids—better still, he'd find
an apartment near the lake.

Marian stood firm. Wearily she reiterated the old theme. "Dan says to stick it out. Dan says if you accomplish a thing yourself,
you have pride."

"But Dan would send you more money if he knew," Randy argued.
"You're losing weight—you'll be sick."

"But Glad is gaining—she's all right!"

"She'd gain faster—"

"Dr. Moss says she is perfect."

Marian laid a beseeching hand on his arm. "I'd crawl on my knees
to ask for help if the baby needed
it. But she doesn't. Dan and I are providing for her. Please let me do this. Please let me do it
the hard way."

THEY let her alone after that,
standing by, ready. July was a nightmare of burning heat and parched winds. Toward the end of July, Glad developed a heat rash, she fretted and had a little fever. Marian's hollow eyes became frenzied pools. That was when Randy and Dolly stepped in.
Dolly had said crossly, "I guess
you can pay a visit to your best friend. I guess Dan wouldn't mind that."

They drove for hours, finally stopping at a white cottage in the cool darkness of deep woods. Lake Michigan danced and sparkled beyond the trees. A fresh little breeze rustled the leaves. Marian stumbled as she stepped from the car and Randy carried her to a cool, green and white bedroom.

Doing so, he muttered, "And we didn't get you here a moment too soon, young lady. In fact, hardly soon enough."

THE August days were like a blissful dream. Marian lay in her bed, sleeping, rousing to look

with contented eyes at the baby
who, under the able ministrations
of the nurse, lost her rash and fever immediately. After a few days, Marian moved to the wide porch swing, there to idly hope
and plan and dream.

The weeks hurried by and she awoke each morning to new strength. She could feel energy and vitality humming through her veins. She swam and rested, she tanned a beautiful brown, rich
color dyed her cheeks and lips.
The baby was a rollicking, pink
and white bit of gladness.

With the coming of September,
Marian realized the time had come to think about the long trip to Portland. Marian wanted to go,
she was well and strong, the baby was old enough to travel. Instinctively, she shrank from going. It meant so much, that journey to Portland, so very much. Dan's letters had not shown one sign of interest, had given her not one shred of hope.

ON Sept. 10, Randy's chauffeur
took them back to the apartment. Dolly had made it ready.
There was food in the refrigerator. The rooms had been cleaned and aired.

Marian set a day for her leaving and she worked toward it feverishly. A few new clothes for travel, a few conveniences for travel. She had her own old dresses changed a bit and cleaned.

On the last night, with nothing left but a bed and one chair, these
to be called for on the morrow,
Marian sat in the bare emptiness,
the baby in her arms.

"We're going to see your daddy,
Glad," she said softly.

The baby crowed and kicked
and threw her little arms about.
She had a straight, strong back and straight, strong legs. Marian often likened her to a rose bud,
if a rose bud could have shining blue eyes. Her hair was definitely reddish and Marian loved it. The ends duck tailed engagingly, it was thick and silky. She laughed and hugged the small body.

"We'll see your daddy in a few days," she repeated. "Oh, Glad,
will he want us? You're to be my offering, my precious gift for him."

Randy and Dolly took them to the train. Liking the baby from Marian's arms, Randy said,
"You've got something here, Marian."

She laughed. "Naturally I think so." To herself she said, "I have done one perfect thing. It is enough to make up for all the things I didn't do."

MacMurray Girl Back From Paris After School Term

Student Spent Six Weeks With French Family; Finds Much Of Interest

"I had just a swell time!" was Jane Allison's comment on her return to the MacMurray College campus last Friday from a summer in Paris. And who wouldn't? Jane spent about six weeks with a French family who lived in Paris proper, out near the Trocadero. There were two girls in the family where Jane stayed, Francoise, the younger, had just finished her baccalaureate, which compares to high school here and was intending to enter the Sorbonne this fall. Yvette, the elder, had already studied at the Sorbonne for some time.

While in Paris Jane went to school mornings at the Alliance Francaise where she met students from all over Europe. "They were all studying French, too," says Jane. There was a Czechoslovakian, some Turk, some Spaniards, Estonians, and some Japanese and a Korean. They were all unhappy about their various nations especially the Europeans. "There was one Nazi boy," remarked Jane. "He didn't talk about the present political confusion."

Afternoons Jane spent at various places of interest in Paris. The Louvre was lovely, she thinks, especially the modern room, but "you have to go through all Egypt to get there. I got tired walking," she adds. "But all the French know so much about art. Francoise, particularly, was interested, and went with me several times."

"The Eiffel tower thrilled me, though you couldn't see as much as from the Empire State building, but just the thought of being there, the place that you'd always read and heard about was wonderful."

The Cinema
Other afternoons Jane went to the movies with Francoise, who is very fond of American movies as well as French ones. "It looked so odd," Jane reported, "to see the American actors speaking French. For that reason, the French movies were easier for me to understand, because their lips and the sound were together." At the Paris movie houses, the audience smoked during the pictures and ate too. They, too, have their double features, and the intermission between shows is very long—like a regular theatre. At that time they sell candy and nuts up and down the aisles, "like a circus, or something."

Many French people leave Paris in the summer for the coast, or travel somewhere in Europe. For that reason the Comedie Francaise closed soon after Jane got to Paris, but she did see one performance. Since the opera stayed open all summer, she was able to go several times.

"The food is delicious. Some people don't like French food, but I do! There's always lots of it, and service is beautiful, even for the most simple meal. The family I was with spent such a long time at meals—for me, it's French conversation time. The family with whom I stayed all spoke nothing but French except the father, who spoke English well. "But we never spoke anything but French while I was there," Jane said. "Francoise tried to teach me the words to some of the French popular songs, but they're hard." Jane remarked, "She likes American songs very much and has quite a lot of records that she plays on the Victrola." The father had been in America the first part of Jane's visit in Paris, and when he returned he brought his daughter a Beer Barrel Polka, Deep Purple, and Wishyng. "Oh, she was thrilled!"

Jane planned to sail home on the Aquatania on the fifth or sixth of September, but as soon as hostilities were declared, the American consul in Paris made all Americans leave for their port towns, and told them that the U. S. government could not be responsible for anyone who sailed on a ship of a belligerent. "I was at Cherbourg for some time, waiting to get a boat," says Jane. "Then they closed the port at Cherbourg and sent us all to LeHavre. There we spent most of our time running from one place to another, trying to book passage on any boat." Finally Jane secured passage on a French liner, the Le Havre, captained by S. Schodach. It carried sixty-four passengers though it was not designed to carry any at all.

"The girls slept in the officers' quarters, and the men had to sleep down with freight. There were all kinds of people on board, from college professors to immigrant-type."

But all were equally glad to reach America safely.

Students Will Elect Homecoming Queen

Illinois College Classes Ballot Friday To Name Queen For Program

Students at Illinois College will choose their 1939 homecoming queen during balloting to be held Friday morning on the campus. The queen is traditionally a member of the senior class, though all four classes vote on the matter.

Last year's homecoming queen was Miss Dorothy Belcher of East St. Louis. Among honors afforded the queen each homecoming are the place of honor in the homecoming parade and the spotlight in the coronation ceremony during the homecoming dance, on the evening after the football game.

Activities for homecoming this fall are directed by Jim Duwer and Jim Soderquist, co-chairmen of the affair. The program of events will include the annual homecoming meetings of the various societies, the bonfire, and snake dance on Friday, and Saturday's game and dance.

The Illinois Players are cooperating in the general program this year and have scheduled their first group of one act plays for Wednesday and Thursday of Homecoming week. Alumni activities for the week end are being planned under the direction of Mrs. C. H. Rammelkamp, alumni secretary of the college.

Officer Creighton Remains Seriously Injured After Crash

Fails to Regain Consciousness After Being Thrown from Motorcycle

Motorcycle Policeman George Creighton remained in serious condition at Our Saviour's hospital Monday, following an accident at 2 a. m. Sunday when he was thrown from his police motorcycle when it collided with an automobile driven by Donald Biggs, 134 Richards street. His condition late last night was reported to be unchanged. He had not gained consciousness.

Officer Creighton was suffering from an injury to his head, caused when he struck the ground in a yard at the corner of Richards and South Main streets. Drs. Paul B. Hartley and Reginald Norris are attending him.

According to a statement given to the police by Mr. Biggs, the collision occurred when Biggs, who driving an automobile owned by LeRoy Gilpin, 635 North Main street, began making a left turn off South Main street into Richards street.

Biggs told the police officers who investigated the accident that he had made a stop at South Main and Morton avenues, and had started up again, going north on South Main street. When he reached the corner of South Main and Richards, he began to turn left, and did not see the police officer, who also was going north on South Main street.

Creighton was thrown from his machine into the boulevard when his motorcycle struck the left front fender of the Gilpin machine. William Sam James, C. Wood and Raymond Todd, who were passing in Samer's automobile, picked up the officer and took him to Our Saviour's hospital. Gilpin told police he was asleep and did not see the accident.

The police department was notified immediately of the accident, and called Mrs. Creighton, later bringing her to the hospital. Special nurses were placed in charge of the case, and members of the police force are remaining close to the hospital to be of service.

In addition to the serious injuries to his skull, Officer Creighton suffered several abrasions and bruises.

Dr. Pontius Speaks At College Chapel

History Of Constitution Is Presented At Weekly I. C. Exercise

The history of the Constitution of the United States was discussed by Dr. Myron L. Pontius of Central Christian church at the weekly chapel service of Illinois college yesterday. The speaker traced the events leading up to the formation of the document by the Constitutional Convention in 1787.

Among the statesmen who took part in the convention were George Washington, its president and later to be twice president of the country, Alexander Hamilton, recognized as the greatest economist this nation has ever produced, and Benjamin Franklin, at 81 the oldest member of the convention.

The convention rejected three possible forms of government—autocracy, monarchy, and democracy, as being inadequate. Of the rejection of the latter form, democracy, Dr. Pontius said, "This country is not, has never, and never will be a democracy in the true sense of the word." The type of government finally, and after much discussion and debate, chosen by the group was the republic with a representative system.

Dr. Pontius said that, though the constitution could and should be changed when a real necessity arose, an amendment should be made only after long and careful deliberation. The document was referred to by the speaker as the "civic bible" with which every one should be familiar.

The address was made following the regular exercises in charge of Dean Ernest G. Hildner, assisted by Dr. Frederick B. Oxtoby, professor of philosophy and religion at Illinois College.

City Council Purchases Fire Truck At Meeting; To Inspect New Project

Voting unanimously, members of the city council at their regular meeting Monday night purchased an American LaFrance Foamite Corporation fire truck, for the fire department at the proposed figure of $8,900, on terms proposed by the truck manufacturing concern. Alderman James Flynn, who introduced the motion to purchase the truck, said that it would be delivered in about 60 working days.

There was no discussion of the motion. Alderman Flynn stating in his motion that the truck be purchased for the above price, and that the truck be paid for over a period of three years, the manufacturers to refrain from charging interest on the unpaid balance of the account. The truck is to replace a piece of apparatus which has been in use for over 20 years.

Members of the council also were requested to meet at nine m. today to make an inspection tour of the waterworks project, which Alderman Ralph Cowgur, chairman of the water committee, said was about 87 percent complete. The council is to inspect the new lake, progress of the work in connecting the two lakes, and other portions of the waterworks project.

Paul Haase, resident engineer representing Warren and Van Praag, engineers, and the city, said when asked that it would not be advisable to close the lake and begin impounding water just yet, as the engineer firm has suggested that all of the grass on the new lake site be burned off and brush disposed of before water is impounded. There is a little work to be done on the spillway, and some logs to be taken out before the lake bed is ready to receive water, he said.

Routine Business
Largely routine business came before the council, which granted the electric light committee authority to advertise for bids, returnable Nov. 6, to furnish 3,750 gallons of lubricating oil for use in the generating plant during the coming year. Alderman T. C. Chumley presented the September report of the light department, showing operating costs and other technical datum, and also reported that to date the municipal plant has installed 1,599 meters.

He brought up the proposed landscaping of the grounds around the plant, and produced a blue print of a proposed plan which he said would cost $921.30 to follow out. Alderman E. R. Franklin, chairman of the finance committee, was consulted, and advised the council that there was nothing in the budget to care for landscaping this year. City Engineer Kenneth Stapleton suggested that it might be possible to obtain trees from the Springfield municipal nursery, and Mayor H. H. Vasconcellos suggested that the light committee study the problem and report some definite program in the immediate future, in view of the fact that fall is the time to plant trees.

Mayor Vasconcellos reported to the council that he had observed a number of places in the city which were being used for dumps, and said he had come to the conclusion that some residents of the city were not aware that the municipal dump was available to citizens without charge. He suggested that council members and city employees spread the word that there was no charge of disposing of refuse at the city dump.

Dump Is Closed
Alderman Ernest Hoagland reported that Illinois College has closed the dump which existed on their property on Edgell Road, and was anticipating doing some grading work to level off the dump.

Alderman Francis Doolin, chairman of the street committee, said that he wished the police department would take some action to prevent people from dumping ashes on alleys. He said the street department had had a number of alleys on urgent requests from property owners, and that in some cases these people were putting ashes on the oil now.

Taking cognizance of the accident in which Patrolman George Creighton of the police department was seriously injured early Sunday morning, Alderman Ralph Cowgur, chairman of the police committee, reported that he was still in serious condition. The alderman said that as far as he had been able to learn the accident appeared to have been unavoidable. Mayor Vasconcellos said that he regretted the accident, and that Officer Creighton was a valued member of the police department.

Alderman Franklin presented a budget report for nine months, stating that all departments except the street department, was operating within its budget for the year. The street department was over budget on its labor item, he said, the over-expense being created by the necessity of repairing a bridge.

The budget report, the finance chairman pointed out, did not contain a report of the electric light plant because a separate set of books is being kept in that department, and reports for the department will be made separately. He said it would be necessary as soon as the waterwork project was complete, to set up a new set of books on that department and to make its reports separately.

A number of reports was read and ordered placed on file. They included the report of the city treasurer, showing a balance of $27,795.14 in the general fund, water collections of $5,586.40, and light department collections of $6,473.68, the report of Justice of Peace C. S. Smith, and of Frank Kiloran, chief of police, showing 22 arrests on city charges and 9 on state charges during the last month, and the city clerk, showing collections of $2,631.15, and the plumbing inspector, showing collections of $119.

Guy H. Woods asked the council whether it would be possible for him to purchase a half year's license for the right to operate an indoor skating rink at the Jacksonville Athletic Club headquarters, and the request was turned over to the ordinance committee for investigation and report back. Regular bills were ordered passed, and claims against the city's share of the Motor Fuel tax funds also were ordered paid.

The Elliott State Bank was approved as the official depository for city funds.

Democratic Women Hear Tribute To Life Of Columbus

Attorney Edward J. Flynn Speaks; Club Elects Officers for Year

Attorney Edward J. Flynn in a vivid description of the life of Columbus addressed the Democratic Women's club Monday evening at its regular meeting held at the Dunlap hotel. The entire program was in observance of Columbus Day and was inspiringly carried out.

"He was the greatest of admirals, one who sailed uncharted seas and should be an inspiration to every American to 'Sail On'." Mr. Flynn recalled the young man of Columbus, telling of his visit to the king of Portugal, who did not take to his project. Attorney Flynn read portions of the journal of Columbus, which were intensely interesting in which Columbus described the wonderful land in the islands, he discovered the New World and landed on the island now known as Cuba, October 12, 1492.

Closing the brief history of the life and achievements of Columbus, Mr. Flynn spoke of his characteristics, among these of a great imagination which we now know was in many instances correct and in the new world democracy was
